	It was the will of the Egyptian people 1				A military coup against the populace 1
	To end the crisis and establish security and stability 2				It disregarded democratic transition and prevented the establishment of a democratic regime 2
	To curb extremism and zealotry 3				An attack on the legitimacy of the elections and a violation of the Constitution 3
	Morsi failed as a leader 4				He should have completed his presidency 4
	To curb the power of the Muslim Brotherhood 5				Because the decision was executed for the sake of foreign interests and agendas 5
	To eliminate terrorism 6				It led to the deterioration of security conditions 6
	To support military rule 7				It divided the Egyptian public and left it with no political stability 7
	Because of Morsi's bias towards the Muslim brotherhood 8				It brought back the previous leadership and military leadership 8
	Morsi was an oppressive authoritarian 9				Morsi was working for the interests of the Egyptian people both at home and abroad 9
	Because of Morsi's foreign policy and positions 10				It was an attempt by Sisi to acquire the leadership 10
	To curb the spread of sectarianism 11				Early presidential elections should have been held 11
					In order to exclude Islamist parties from participating in government 12
